Planning for the 2008 joint conference with Utah Library Association is proceeding on schedule.

Phone conferences have been held several times with the ULA conference officials, Wayne Hanway and Rob Banks. Some of these calls have been with the hotel management to address contract concerns and clarify any issues we have.

The theme has been selected "Where Paths Meet: Connecting Libraries and Communities." A logo is in development and other information is in process.

While attending ALA Legislative Day in Washington, DC, I was able to meet with Dorothy Horan, President of ULA and discussions about potential keynote speakers occurred.
