ULA News

- ULA received the 2019 Gerald Hodges Award for Intellectual Freedom at ALA Annual for “taking the lead in building a coalition of partners that led to the reinstatement of access to EBSCO databases for more than 650,000 students after a state Board blocked access based on complaints that EBSCO databases were pornographic.”
-  disclaimer ULA would like to note that anyone who was present at this award breakfast should consider the remarks delivered by the person accepting the award were his views only and do not represent the views of ULA.

Respectfully submitted,

Joe Frazier
